Democrat Body Prepares Blast At Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democrats today stoked up a new broadside attack on the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign affairs, national defense and economic policy.

Declarations of policy blistering the administration were to be drawn up at a two-day meeting of the Democratic Party's Advisory Council — the between-conventions voice of the national party organization.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson drew up a foreign policy declaration to be considered during the day. Dr. Kenneth Galbraith headed the council committee on economic affairs to be heard Sunday.

In advance of the session, Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn scoffingly predicted the forthcoming declarations would "surprise few and enlighten no one."

He said the "left-wing thinking" in the groups headed by Acheson and Galbraith would be "dressed up in new adjectives" and issued with "piety and self - righteousness."

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler retorted by citing the records of such council members as former President Truman, who did not plan to attend this session; Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 and 1956 presidential nominee, and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

State AFL and CIO Reach an 'Understanding'

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and the state CIO council have reached a "basic understanding" on a possible merger, it was announced Friday.

The statement was made following a meeting of the merger committees of the two organizations at the Broadwood Hotel. Another meeting to "complete negotiations and settle a number of minor points" will be held Nov. 14.

The organization, boast a combined membership of one million workers in Pennsylvania. The AFL has about 550,000 and the CIO about 450,000.

The date for the next meeting is three weeks before the Dec. 5 deadline set by the national AFL-CIO for voluntary mergers of state organizations. Pennsylvania is one of the major states in which the consolidation has not been accomplished.

Those attending Friday's meeting were: Peter J. McGavin and R. J. Thomas, assistants to national AFL-CIO chief George Meany, and Henry McFarland, regional director of the AFL-CIO in Philadelphia.

Attempt to Fly Ocean in Small Plane Fails

LA CORUNA, Spain (UP) — American pilot Bill Wyatt, attempting a nonstop flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome in a small plane crashed in the Atlantic early today and was rescued immediately by a Spanish fishing boat.

He was unhurt.

The boat, the Virgen de Buen Consejo, brought Wyatt to La Coruna, fishing port on the northwest tip of the Spanish coast, some 400 miles west of the French city of Bordeaux, where he had been expected to land because his plane was running out of gas.

First reports said Wyatt's plane a small four-seater Mooney Mark 20, was forced into a storm-tossed Atlantic off the coast when snow piled up on the wings.

He radioed his position before going down.

The message was received at Santiago de Compostela and by the fishing boat that rescued him. The boat went quickly to his rescue.

The reports said Wyatt broke out of his plane by smashing a window. He was hauled aboard the vessel and brought here.

American Consul Samuel Young in Vigo, to the South, said he talked with Wyatt by telephone and that Wyatt was unhurt and "undeterred by his accident."

"He told me he had been picked up by a fishing boat 30 miles northwest of Coruna where he landed in the sea due to icing. He said he varied his course south because of storms," Young told the United Press.

"Wyatt is going to contact the plane's owners to tell them he thinks they can pull the plane up from the bottom. He thought he landed in fairly shallow water."

U. S. Set To Test Missile

'Vanguard' May Be Fired Today; 'Jupiter' Failed to Leave the Ground

WASHINGTON (UP)—A redoubled Defense Department drive to clear out bottlenecks in the long range missile program was backed up today by reports that government scientists are ready to fire a Vanguard missile.

Attempts to fire an intermediate range Jupiter failed Friday night at Cape Canaveral, Fla., when the huge missile did not fire properly and never got off the ground. However, it was reported that the Vanguard test missile would be fired shortly, possibly early today.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy assumed virtual command of the missile program Friday and took steps to achieve closer inter-service cooperation in the field.

At the same time the United States pushed its plan for greater scientific unity among free nations to meet problems raised by Russia's missile-satellite success.

Hold Talks

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd Friday discussed ways of achieving closer scientific cooperation between their two countries. The talk was a preliminary to the one President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will hold next week.

Dulles followed this up Friday night at a dinner he gave for Queen Elizabeth II by calling for "increasing exchange and contacts" between the United States and Britain.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker charged in a speech in Yorktown, Va., Soviet party leader Nikita Khrushchev was trying to exploit the Russian satellite success to scare the free world into intimidation." Brucker said the United States must make "a sustained effort to build stronger than ever" to meet the Soviet challenge.

Also on the missile - satellite front:

—Sen. Styles Bridges called for a crackdown on politically minded American scientists whom he blamed for the lag in U.S. missile production. Bridges charged that some members of this country's "scientific hierarchy" who were prominent in the missile field had been taken in by Soviet peace talk.

Predicts Moon Station

—A Navy rocket expert said Russia may unsuccessfully have tried to send up a satellite last August. Vice Adm. John H. Sides said the intercontinental missile the Russians announced they fired then may actually have been a satellite launching attempt.

—Soviet scientist Aleksander Aleksandrov predicted in Moscow that Russia soon may set up an observation station on the moon.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) —Sources at the government's top secret missile center indicated a slender Vanguard missile may be triggered off in a test run sometime today. The Army's big Jupiter missile failed to fire in another test Friday night.

The Vanguard is a prototype of the one scientists hope to use to shoot a U.S. satellite into a round-the-world orbit. There was no indication when it might be triggered from its launching site.

The Jupiter, conceded to be the most advanced missile in the U.S. rocket arsenal, apparently failed to fire properly, observers near the top secret base reported.

No explanation was offered by official spokesmen.

Observers said the big rocket never got off the ground and that

West Entrance to City To Be Blocked Monday

No traffic will be permitted to enter the west end of Monessen via Schoonmaker Ave. effective Monday morning at 7 o'clock, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka announced today.

The ban was to have been effective earlier this week but was postponed because rain and other difficulties delayed start of a repairing project.

The streets department Monday will begin tearing up brick between 14th and 17th streets in preparation for the widening and paving of Schoonmaker Ave. from Sixth to 17th streets by the state Highways Department.

The state will set up detours on all roads leading to the west end of Monessen, the chief said.

Frank Donatelli Co., general contractor, announced it will begin work on the project Monday or Tuesday.

The no-traffic ban has resulted in a change of schedules for Westside Motor Transit Co.

The bus firm said, effective Monday, Monessen passengers for Charleroi, Belle Vernon and Fairhope will ride the Donora bus, or will change buses in North Belle Vernon.

Moscow Urges New 'Summit' Meeting on Middle East Crisis

'GLAD TO WELCOME YOU' — America's First Lady, Mamie Eisenhower, catches the hand of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and says, "I'm glad to see you . . . glad to welcome you here" to the White House. Smiling President Eisenhower follows as photographers record the scene.

By UNITED PRESS

Moscow radio suggested today that only a meeting of President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Nikita S. Khrushchev could end the Middle East crisis.

Moscow scarcely interrupted its slashing attacks on Turkey, the United States and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to put forth the feeler in a broadcast heard in London.

It said Macmillan and Eisenhower were meeting in Washington Tuesday for further Anglo-American plots in the Middle East and ridiculed Dulles' reasons for not wanting to call an East - West "Summit" meeting.

British Press Speculates

"Why the rush?" Moscow asked of the Eisenhower - Macmillan talks. "Why were all previous plans changed? . . . If they really want to bring the Mideast back to normal why don't they invite other countries to confer."

The broad hint that Khrushchev would like to attend such a Summit conference came as the British press was still speculating on the possibility of such a meeting despite Friday's foreign office denial.

The morning, evening and nighttime Moscow blasts against the West stepped up in tempo as the United Nations prepared for formal debate next Tuesday on the Syrian crisis.

Say Crisis Artificial

The Western powers insisted the crisis was an artificial one built up solely by Moscow, and described as fantastic repeated Moscow charges the United States was urging Turkey to attack Syria.

Moscow also accused U.S. Assistant Undersecretary of State Loy Henderson of flying to the Mideast last August to try to get Iraq, Jordan, Israel and Turkey to attack Syria. Iraq and Jordan refused, the broadcast said.

Turkey still appeared calm despite the unprecedented propaganda attacks by Moscow.

Not Againt Discusssion

United Press correspondent Russell Jones reported from Ankara that Turkey had "nothing against" U.N. discussion of the Turko-Syrian border dispute but has not decided whether it would open its borders to investigation.

The Soviet propaganda obviously was taking effect in many Middle East nations. Arab nation after Arab nation promised to aid Syria in the event of "aggression."

But a projected meeting of the kings of Saudi Arabia and Jordan and the presidents of Lebanon, Syria and Egypt apparently was off in view of the U.N. decision to debate the question next week.

French Angry At Parliament Rejecting Pinay

PARIS (UP)—A wave of popular revulsion swept the country today against France's capricious Parliament and the humiliating defeat it inflicted on Antoine Pinay in his attempt to form a goverment.

Not since the days of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain has a nation been so bitter against the National Assembly which is divided into 13 separate parties and unable to form a majority.

The assembly voted 248 to 198 Friday night against installing Pinay as France's 24th postwar premier despite his urgent pleas that 20 days of government crisis has harmed France at a time of international tension and threatened economic chaos at home.

Paris newspapers belabored the assembly, but the man in the street was the bitterest. Observers said they had seen nothing like it since Petain's Vichy regime, following collapse of the third French Republic in June 1940 under the onslaught of Nazi panzers.

New elections appeared almost certain since no candidate for the premiership was given a chance of forming a stable government. The movement to bring in a strong man to lead France gained ground once more.

Sixth members of the 596 deputies did not vote when the assembly gave Pinay, a right-wing conservative, one of the most overwhelming defeats in recent years. Of these, 21 were Gaullists (now Social Republicans) who abstained in hope Gen. Charles de Gaulle might be returned to power.

President Rene Coty decided to move fast to stem the mounting cry for a strong regime and called in three former premiers today: Socialist Guy Mollet, Catholic Popular Republican (MRP) Robert Schuman and Radical - Socialist Henry Queuille.

Naval Scientists Soar 16 Miles in Giant Balloon

HERMANSVILLE, Mich. (UP)—Two high-spirited Navy scientists soared more than 16 miles above the earth in a giant balloon Friday, and celebrated their safe landing with angel food cake and beer.

Lt. Cmdr. M. L. Lewis, 44, and Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, 37, set down their aluminum gondola in a swamp after an 8½ - hour "hush-hush" flight.

More than 2,000 pounds of scientific equipment accompanied the two scientists on their space exploration which began at 9:15 a.m. e.d.t. from an open pit iron mine at Crosby, Minn.

There had been no advance notice of the flight which carried the veteran spacemen across three states, reaching a peak altitude of 86,000 feet. Navy tracking planes confirmed the reported altitude.

Navy officials said the news blackout had been imposed earlier to avoid requests for interviews and pictures.

Although the flight did not reach the record height set by Air Force Maj. David Simons in a manned balloon last month, authorities said the two men had gone high enough to get intricate computations at the edge of the stratosphere.

Child Follows Parents in Death From Monoxide

PITTSBURGH (UP)— A tragic sequence involving the deaths by carbon monoxide poisoning of a young Pittsburgh family was completed Friday.

Three-year-old Rene Romaine passed away six hours after becoming an orphan.

She died at Allegheny General Hospital where her mother, Louise 24, died at 6 a.m.

Her father, John, 31, was found dead late Thursday in the family's North Side apartment.

Police, in describing the tragedy, said a toaster had been placed atop a burner of a gas stove. The toaster prevented the gas from obtaining sufficient oxygen and caused an almost 100 per cent production of carbon monoxide to flow throughout the apartment.

The coroner's office said the deaths apparently were accidental. It said an inquest would be held.

Sputnik's Covered 5,850,000 Miles

LONDON (UP) — Moscow radio reported today Sputnik has traveled 5,850,000 miles and made 213 trips around the world.

The report said the satellite's rocket now has 24 minutes and 6,875 miles ahead of Sputnik and by tonight would be 27 minutes and 7,690 miles ahead.

British scientists said the satellite is slowing but probably would remain in its orbit for some time.

Queen Will See Football Game

By GAY PAULEY

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sports-loving Queen Elizabeth II gets her first taste today of a cherished American tradition — the Saturday afternoon college football game.

At her side when she watches the Maryland - North Carolina game in College Park, Md., were to be her athletic husband and two royal football advisers, Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and university President Wilson H. Elkins.

Crammed into the University of Maryland Byrd Stadium with them will be a sell-out crowd of 43,000, probably drawn there as much by the Queen as the prospect of some top-notch football.

Before she started off on her fast-paced jaunt of North America, the Queen made it known she wanted to see a football game here. It took a lot of arranging to fit it into her tight schedule. College officials even had to delay the game's start so she wouldn't miss the first half.

Straps Break

But all the excitement of the game could hardly match a tantalizing performance produced by a pair of broken straps on the dress of a shapely dancer Friday night at another glittering state dinner for the Queen given by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The straps popped on the gown of dance specialist Marge Champion as she was being swept around the floor before her majesty by her husband, Gower. They completed their dance with the top of the dress threatening to fall but managed to finish with no undue revelation.

The dinner was somewhat less strenuous for the Queen than was a reception earlier Friday at the British Embassy. It was estimated the seemingly tireless Queen shook

Ex-Paratrooper Is Acquitted of Murder Charge

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Former paratrooper Andrew R. Snavely, 22, of Duquesne, was acquitted on Friday in the death of a Clairton scrap dealer following a fist fight.

Snavely, an automobile salesman was charged with inflicting fatal injuries on Steve Goca, 35, in a fight Oct. 11, 1956, outside the Swing Club in McKeesport.

Snavely remained calm as the jury of four men and eight women returned its verdict. The case was tried before Judge Harry H. Montgomery.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harry Savage did not request a specific verdict.

Snavely had testified the fight was over the affections of Violet Preston, 25, of McKeesport.

Snavely told the jury Goca "grabbed my arm and swung at me three or four times." He said he struck back in self - defense and Goca fell down.

Snavely denied slugging Goca while the latter was on the ground. Goca died in McKeesport Hospital 12 hours after the fight.

Truman Raps Budget, Farm, Foreign Policies

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman unleashed a peppery blast at the Republican administration's budget, farm and foreign policies Friday.

Speaking to Democratic leaders from 13-midwestern states, the former chief executive sounded the battle cry, calling for a Democratic crusade to "put the country back where it belongs" in 1960.

The delegates wound up the two day conference by adopting a resolution condemning the action of Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus in calling out the state National Guard in the integration situation and the failure of President Eisenhower to "use the full prestige of his office to support the decision of the Supreme Court" prior to the Little Rock crisis.

Two other resolutions condemned the Eisenhower - Benson farm program for what it called a decrease in farm income and Mr. Eisenhower's "failure as president to place in effect the great scientific capacity of the country with the result that the Soviet Union launched an earth satellite ahead of the United States."

Truman charged that the GOP has "put a halo on the heads of money lenders."

Said Truman: "Wall Street tried to get me to let them make the money policy and they have succeeded with Eisenhower."

He said that "something is wrong when the government bonds go below par," but quickly added that the U.S. is not insolvent.

Turning to the satellite launching, the former president said the Eisenhower administration is unable to give facts about the Russian Sputnik because it "doesn't know them."

Says Automation Hurts Valley

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Automation has made deep cuts in employment in the steel industry, according to an official of the United Steelworkers.

Paul Hilbert, director of USW District 15, told a meeting of district officials Friday that automation has eliminated 3,000 steel jobs in the Monongahela Valley.

Hilbert said the displaced workers have been helped by supplemental unemployment benefits, won by the union in the 1956 contract negotiations with the steel industry. The 52-week SUB program supplements state benefits.

Pittsburgh-Erie Freeway Approved

Highspeed Road May Be Extended South to West Virginia Border

WASHINGTON (UP) — A 102-mile Pittsburgh-to-Erie Freeway, a vital link between Pittsburgh and the new St. Lawrence Seaway, has been approved as part of the federal interstate highway system.

The action, announced Friday, meant the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of the highspeed, limited - access highway which eventually, it is hoped, will be extended south from Pittsburgh to West Virginia.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will pay 10 per cent of the cost.

The road, expected to parallel Route 19, will provide a long-sought link between Western Pennsylvania's two largest cities and will tie Pittsburgh with the St. Lawrence Seaway. Completion of the seaway will make Erie a major lake port.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks also announced plans for a belt highway for Scranton, Pa., and an intercity route in Philadelphia. The belt route will provide a through - traffic expressway around the congested industrial and shopping areas of Scranton, Weeks said.

Hopes For Extension

Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.) said he hoped the Pittsburgh-to-Erie Freeway will be extended eventually to the West Virginia border to bring the industrial benefits of the St. Lawrence Seaway to all of Western Pennsylvania.

"We have been working for a long, long time on our efforts to get the Pittsburgh-Erie link," he declared.

Martin said the precise route for the freeway will be determined by engineering studies to be made by the Pennsylvania Highways Department and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. Gov. George M. Leader already has ordered a state survey of possible routes.

The freeway was part of 1,102 miles saved through rerouting five new city-to-city highways and urban routes in the 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

Other Roads Planned

Besides the turnpike, interstate roads earmarked for the Pittsburgh area are the Penn Lincoln Parkway and extensions of it, both east and west; a Warrendale-to-Pittsburgh road, and a Warrendale-to-Washington, (Pa.) spur.

Also added on Thursday to the interstate system were 190 miles of roadway from Canton, Ohio, to Charleston, W. Va., creating another north-south artery for use of Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The path for the new Pittsburgh-Erie Freeway had, until recently, been the subject of a bitter battle. One group had stumped for a route through Beaver Valley. Another wanted a right - of - way through Allegheny County.

The two groups finally resolved their differences, formed the Pittsburgh-Erie Freeway Assn. and agreed to abide by the decision of road engineers.

The news of federal approval of the link followed by one day the announcement of state plans for Route 28 in the Allegheny Valley.

Leader told a meeting of Armstrong County Democrats Thursday night the state would spend up to 150 million dollars to improve the 60-mile stretch of Route 28 from Blawnox, near Pittsburgh, to Brookville.

The improvements would be made, the governor said, even if the federal government failed to pay any of the costs.

Route 28 eventually will connect with the proposed Keystone Shortway, a border to border expressway across northern Pennsylvania.

Boosters of the Pittsburgh - to-Erie artery said the road will open up a new industrial era for Western Pennsylvania in which products could be shipped directly to South America and Europe via the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Weeks said it would provide a vitally needed regional hookup for "residents and industries" in large sections of Ohio, West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and Western New York.

Bible Meetings Are Planned at Baptist Church

A seven-day Bible conference will be held at the First Baptist Church of Monessen beginning Oct. 27 and continuing through Nov. 3. The Rev. Lloyd S. Erb, church pastor, has announced that services will be held nightly at 7:45 excepting Saturday.

The conference will be under the leadership of Earl H. Tschudy, youth and conference speaker, and the theme will be "Visions of Christ." The special music will be directed by the Rev. and Mrs. Max Ware, a former radio gospel team.

The Rev. Mr. Tshudy is head of the science department and instructor of Chemistry and Physics in the Hazelton Senior High School, Hazelton. He is a well known speaker at summer camps and youth rallies, and is now conducting bible conferences and evangelistic meetings. He recently conducted conferences at Stony Brook, L.I., N.Y.; New England Keswick, Massachusetts; and Red Rock Bible Conference, Wilkes Barre.

'Split-level' Game Season Opens In State Today

HARRISBURG (UP) — The upland portion of Pennsylvania's "split-level" game season opened today and most of the state's estimated one million licensed hunters headed for the Commonwealth's forest lands.

Cool temperatures with a possibility of rain is expected throughout the state most of today, but with clearing and warmer weather on its way.

For the first week of the season, the sportsmen are limited to bagging forest game only—ruffed grouse, wild turkey, squirrels and raccoons. The season on this game will expire Nov. 9.

Next Saturday other small game will become legal prey, including cottontail rabbits, ringnecked pheasants, quail and woodchucks. The state Game Commission classified these animals as "farm game" and the season on them runs from Oct. 26 to Nov. 30.

A commission spokesman explained that splitting the season in this manner will "get the hunters out of the woods before the beginning of the bear season." Bear hunting becomes legal Nov. 25.

"And we will still be able to give sportsmen the longest possible season," the spokesman said.

The commission said small game prospects this season should be slightly better than last year. In a pre-season survey it made these predictions:

Improved Supply

Grouse—A little more populous than last year with an encouraging increase in some areas.

Wild turkeys—Rapid improvement in numbers in areas where the birds find good cover. Elsewhere, about the same as last year.

Squirrels—Not as numerous as in 1956.

Raccoons—In greater numbers than last year when they were described as "overabundant."

Rabbits—A fair increase over last year's better than average supply.

Pheasants—A moderate to considerable increase over 1956 in better pheasant ranges.

Quail—An encouraging, gradual increase, especially in southern counties. But not abundant.

Woodchucks—Numerous in most sections.

The dry, warm weather of the late spring and early summer helped the population of almost all birds and rabbits, establishing almost ideal brooding and hatching conditions.

Heavy rains throughout the state this week reduced the danger of forest fires to a minimum. But campers were still advised of inherent hazards and cautioned to take safety precautions.

Elderly Man Kills Friend

MT. HOLLY, N. J. (UP)—Two elderly bachelors fought a duel to the death over "the platonic affections" of a 36-year-old housekeeper, state police reported today.

Police said 71-year-old Antonio Gaeta, of Pine Grove, shot and killed his long-time friend, Michael Donegan, a 69-year-old cripple, after Donegan's ex-housekeeper quit work at home to work for Gaeta.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Helen Williams, was held as a material witness.

Bad blood between the two friends apparently developed over the shift a month ago and moved to a tragic climax Thursday night. Donegan, in a rage, walked to Gaeta's house and called, "come out here and I'll club you to death."

West Germany Severs Ties with Yugoslavia

BONN, Germany (UP) — The West German government severed diplomatic relations with Communist Yugoslavia today.

The move was taken because Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia recognized the government of Communist East Germany on Oct. 15.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer took the view that any government recognizing the Soviet zone regime might delay the future reunification of Germany.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano called Yugoslav Ambassador Dusan Kveder to the foreign office to hand him an official note formally breaking relations.

At the same time the West German charge d'affaires in Belgrade, Herbert Mueller-Roschach, handed an identical note to the Yugoslav foreign office.

The West German move was taken in spite of objections from some West German Parliament members who said there would be no chance of restoring relations with East bloc states if Bonn broke with Belgrade.

Yugoslavia was the first nation outside the Soviet bloc to establish diplomatic relations with East Germany. Von Brentano told a 29-man parliamentary committee that 25 to 35 other nations might follow suit unless West Germany took action.

Such wholesale recognition of the Communist regime would be a heavy blow to Bonn's claim to speak for all Germany.

At the dinner in the Pan American Union, Dulles in a toast to the Queen called for "increasing exchange and contacts" between the United States and Great Britain to cope successfully with new problems of the future.

The Queen, in an answering toast, called for "unfettered exchange between men of ideas" if freedom is to survive. She followed protocol and asked that the guests "rise and drink to the health of the President of the nited States."

Liquor Dealers Dinner Sunday

Over 1,000 persons are expected to attend the 21st annual banquet of the Westmoreland County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association tomorrow night at Twin Coaches.

Herman Mihalich, of Monessen, president, said dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. prompt.

Following dinner and a short speaking program, there will be dancing and a floor show featuring Al Morgan, pianist.

Some 200 persons from Monessen are expected to attend.

No Charges Planned at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — The Justice Department may never indict the leaders of a surging crowd of whites whose violence at Central High School brought federal troops to Little Rock, United Press learned today.

FBI agents have amassed what probably is enough evidence to convince a grand jury the leaders should be indicted, United Press learned, but U.S. Justice Department attorneys doubted the evidence is sufficient to get convictions before trial juries.

In addition, informed sources said, the Justice Department takes the view that nobody was seriously hurt and that the Central High School scene has been relatively peaceful since 101st Division paratroopers came in Sept. 25.

The violence in question occurred Sept. 23, when Little Rock police tried to protect nine Negro students at Central. A crowd of about 1,000 whites set upon four Negro newsmen and photographers and beat and spat upon at least four white newsmen.

The crowd got out of hand and the nine Negroes had to be withdrawn after three hours in school. Local authorities appealed for help and President Eisenhower sent in the paratroopers.

Informed sources said that should the Justice Department decide to go after indictments anyway, it will be in December at the earliest. No federal grand jury is in session.

Two of the nine Negroes who integrated at Central Sept. 25 under paratrooper protection have been sick all this week with flu. Seven finished their fourth week in an integrated school Friday.

U. S., Britain Score Victory in H-Bomb Power for Peace

PRINCETON, N.J. (UP)— The United States and Britain may have scored a first step victory in efforts to harness hydrogen bomb power for peaceful uses.

U. S. and British scientists emerged Friday from a hush-hush two-day conference at Princeton University with word of their findings, but said only further experiments could confirm their beliefs.

A joint announcement by United Kingdom and U.S. spokesmen said a comparison of results of "essentially distinct approaches" to harnessing H-bomb power "suggest achievement of neutrons from thermonuclear reactions, but more experimental work will be necessary to establish this as a fact."

The statement added that production of thermonuclear neutrons "would be only a step, although an important one, in the long-range efforts to develop thermonuclear reactors for the production of economic power."

its full power was never unleashed. The Jupiter-C is the same rocket that soared 3,600 miles over the Atlantic this spring, the farthest any ballistic missile has been fired. It is designated as an intermediate range ballistic missile.

The projected test, third in a series of seven before a scheduled attempt is made in March to put up the United States' version of Russia's Sputnik, was planned to test the first stage engine of the three-stage rocket.

A report on the possible firing of the Vanguard Friday had filtered down from sources in Washington but for some reason, despite the activity, the firing never came off.

The bagpipe is regarded as Asiatic in origin and counted among the most ancient of music makers.

Western Sources Say Soviet Charges U. S. Plots War 'Fantastic'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Western sources described as "fantastic" today Soviet-Syrian charges the United States and Turkey are plotting war against Syria.

"This isn't a shooting war," said one source, "it's an allegation war."

The U.N. General Assembly Friday put an urgent tag on the Syrian complaint that Turkey was massing troops on her border and endangering world peace. By a vote of 66 to 0, with Liberia abstaining, the assembly approved inclusion in its agenda of the Soviet-Syrian complaint that Turkey, with U.S. backing and advice, is planning to start a war against Syria week after next.

It was agreed the assembly as a whole would discuss the question, bypassing the usual committee debate. No date was set for the discussion, but it was expected to start Tuesday or Wednesday.

It was understood that assembly President Sir Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand would not invoke the "seven - day rule" — which stipulates that debate on an issue should not begin until a week after it has been admitted to the agenda.

Turkey's Ambassador Seyfullah Esin welcomed the airing of the Syrian charges before the assembly. He said the "real dangers" in the Middle East were being concealed "behind a smoke-screen."

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge suggested the Syrian charge be amended to include debate on the whole question of Syria's "independence." Lodge withdrew the suggestion after Syria objected.

Syria's complaint climaxed an exchange of charges that began when the United States expressed concern over Soviet shipments of arms to Syria. Turkey, one of America's stauchest allies in the Middle East, lies between the two countries.

Crisp Weather for Queen's First Grid Game

By UNITED PRESS

The weatherman made a courtly bow to Queen Elizabeth II today, promising to serve up crackling crisp and cool football weather for the English visitor who will witness her first football game.

Although some showers are forecast for the North Atlantic Coast states, none are expected to fall as far south as College Park, Md., where the Queen and Prince Philip will view the Maryland-North Carolina match.

During the night, skies were mostly clear west of the Rockies, although light rain and drizzle fell in some parts of Montana and Wyoming.

Rain fell over much of the North Atlantic Coast region and into the Mid-Atlantic states, also in parts of Florida.

Today's forecast indicated rainfall patterns would again be concentrated in the Rockies, the southern Plateau, the North Atlantic states, and in Florida's southernmost tip.

Some snow flurries will occur in the northern and central Rockies.

Hold Orchestra Player for a Dope Violation

BOSTON (UP) — Officials of the Boston Symphony Orchestra declined immediate comment today on the arrest of the group's only Negro player on narcotics charges at Buffalo, N.Y.

Bass violin player Ortiz M. Walton, 23, was committed to a hospital for observation Friday at Buffalo after questioning by federal narcotics agents.

Walton, winner of an audition at the Berkshire music center at Lenox, Mass., last summer, was taken into custody Thursday night at the Buffalo exit of the International Peace Bridge.

Customs inspector James Thompson said Walton, a Buffalo resident, arrived at the bridge by taxi from Toronto, Ont. Police said he was incoherent in answering questions but said he left his bass violin behind at Ann Arbor, Mich., following a concert earlier this week. Walton was unable to explain his presence in Toronto, officials said.

Sputnik's 'Shadows' Attract Interest

DON'T look now, Sputnik, but you're being followed. You didn't think, did you, that the secret police would trust you up there alone, more than 500 miles in the sky, without some means of checking you for right-wing deviationism? Just stay in your Marxist-Leninist-Khrushchev orbit if you know what's good for you.

If you've forgotten what happens to Soviet satellites that get out of line, take a gander at Hungary as you pass beeping by.

This is unbecoming levity, of course. It is sheer anthropomorphism to talk as if the ball of fabricated metal now zipping around earth were a sentient being, pervious to dogma and doctrine, swept by vagrant yearnings for freedom. Sputnik is a thing, not a person.

But Sputnik is being followed all the same. Its third rocket stage, after blasting Sputnik into its orbit, was expendable. Like the first and second stages, it might have fallen harmlessly until it was vaporized by friction on its way back to earth.

Instead, it is staying up there. So also, according to Pravda, is a separate protective cone jettisoned as the satellite went into its orbit.

* * *

A ROCKET is mostly fuel and burns out fast. A three-stage rocket — if that is what lifted Sputnik to its orbit — contains three sections. When the fuel in the first section is burned up, it drops off and the second section starts blasting.

The second section, with less weight to push, does its job and the third takes over. The third raises the satellite to a height and speed at which centrifugal force cancels out gravity, and it stays up.

The speed and position of the third stage were not supposed to balance so perfectly, but the operation is tricky and in this case they did.

This explains what puzzled some early observers — the fact that the supposed satellite, as seen by reflected light, was about 40 times as bright as it was expected to be. This could have meant that the Russians had exceeded even their own boasts and sent up some kind of space station, but the overwhelming probabilities were against it.

* * *

MOSCOW has said that the last rocket stage is orbiting around the earth some 680 miles behind Sputnik, and this is almost certainly true. Presumably the two objects trailing Sputnik are less accurately orbited and will fall first. The nose has been seen from scattered isolation posts moving through the stars for periods up to three minutes.

When it falls and is heated to incandescence by the frcition of the atmosphere, those within eyeshot may see a rare spectacle.

Contains Lanolin

LANOLIN! The word jumps out at the reader from the cosmetic ads, the soap ads, the whole realm of those masterpieces of typographical layout and design, richly illustrated, artfully written. A face cream is launched as "New—Made With Lanolin!"

Lanolin is the long-awaited discovery (readers are given to understand) for "thirsty skin." "Our new lanolin formula" is extolled in those words or similar ones as the quintessence of daintiness, as the answer to woman's eternal quest for the miracle anointment.

Lanolin, lanolin, lanolin! The advertisements continue machine-gunning it at women readers as if it were some new "miracle" synthetic of chemical science. But the ads never disclose what lanolin is.

Here, ladies, is what lanolin is, as defined by dictionaries old and new:

"Wool fat or wool grease. It is a yellowish, unctuous mass, and is used in ointments, cosmetics, etc." It has great healing power. Nick a sheep's skin with fleecing clippers and the grease helps heal the place fast.

This "greasy coating found on sheep's wool" does indeed have emulsive properties very good for dry skin whether it is the living epidermis of a woman's face or the tanned cowhide of her shoes. In cosmetics this wool grease is, of course, highly refined.

Is it necessary for manufacturers and admen to be so carefully, fearfully reticent as to what lanolin really is? Women are made of pretty strong stuff. Knowing what lanolin is and does, they'll keep on buying the cosmetics.

Today and Tomorrow—

Intrigue, not War, Likely Over Syria

By WALTER LIPPMANN

There is no obvious reason why Khrushchev should be conducting such a big agitation about Turkey and Syria. He cannot really believe that the United States government is inciting the Turks to attack Syria and thus to precipitate a war which, once started, would involve the whole NATO alliance. Nor can we believe that the Soviet Union is looking for a pretext to attack Turkey, and thus to precipitate a world war. There must be something less world-shaking at stake.

Mr. Lippmann

It seems to be a plausible guess to say that what is at stake is the control of the Syrian government, and more specifically whether the military dictatorship must be composed of officers and bureaucrats who are dependent on Moscow. If this is correct, then the story began last summer when the former government became infiltrated and then dominated by a group of men who had the support of the Soviet Union and also of Nasser's Egypt.

Intrigue Likely

To this successful intrigue Mr. Dulles reacted strongly. As the event has shown, in public at least he over-reacted, and deeply embarrassed the Arab governments of Saudi Arabia, Iraq and Lebanon, which are in fact anti-Soviet and anti-Nasser. But it is a reasonable guess that among the Syrians who were ousted by the intrigue of last summer, there has been going on a counter-intrigue aimed at their own return to power. Presumably, the center of this intrigue is in Turkey which would, of course, welcome the overthrow of the present pro-Soviet government in Damascus.

There is some reason for thinking that the intrigue has been making headway and that its agents may have been coming across the Turkish-Syrian border, that they may have begun to penetrate successfully the Syrian army on which the government depends. The best reason for thinking that this may have happened is Nasser's extraordinary action in sending a battalion of Egyptian troops into northern Syria. This action would be military absurdity if what Khrushchev talks about — Turkish aggression backed by the United States — were really in the making. For what on earth could a few hundred soldiers do if it came to war?

Logical Explanation

But if we think of the Egyptian soldiers as having been sent in to watch the Syrian troops and to strengthen the hands of the government in Damascus as against a counter revolutionary plot, Nasser's action in sending them is intelligible. So also is the pleasure expressed by the Damascus government. So also is the loud applause from Moscow.

This leads me to guess further that the Soviet warnings and menaces about Turkey refer to the fact, or shall we say the probability, that Turkey is harboring and encouraging intrigues by the ousted and refugee Syrians to recover their power in Damascus. The issue in the Syrian chapter of the cold war is the control of the government in Damascus, and the stakes are rather high. But there is as yet no evidence, it seems to me, that the conflict over Syria is outside the limits of the cold war.

For Syria, unlike for example North Korea in 1950, is a negligible military power. Whereas North Korea was stronger than South Korea, Syria is no match at all for Turkey or Israel, much less for the two of them combined. On the other hand, the one certain thing about American policy is that the Eisenhower administration will not countenance, much less will it approve and support, military action by Turkey or by Israel.

All this would add up to the high probability that what is going on is not maneuvers before a war, but the ups and the downs, the plots and the counter-plots, in the great game of power politics.

Ike's Leadership Lacking

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

At a time of bewilderment bordering on alarm over the feats of Soviet science, it is positively dangerous when the American people are uncertain whether the President is firmly at the tiller and steering in the right direction.

Mr. Drummond

This uncertainty is the bald, ominous fact which almost literally burst before the eyes of a Washington correspondent returning to the United States in the wake of Sputnik and Moscow's plausible claims about its ICBMs.

It means that the country is simply not accepting President Eisenhower's quieting words that all is well.

It means that if the President is right that there is little cause for concern, that there is no need to shift a lot of things into higher gear, he is failing to persuade the nation that he is right.

It means that if the President is wrong — wrong in not raising the roof because we are lagging behind the Soviets and wrong in not raising our sights the instant it became evident — he is losing precious time when the whole country would respond to a call to action.

Has Public's Confidence

It is my deep conviction:

That President Eisenhower has the reservoir of goodwill and confidence which would enable him to do anything he wants to do — financially, administratively and legislatively — to mobilize the nation's resources to reverse the gaping lag between Soviet and American attainments in science and in weaponry.

That this reserve of confidence will not remain indefinitely and may not remain long in his hands unless Mr. Eisenhower makes himself the dynamic agent of what is manifestly a very aroused public opinion.

That if the President concludes that nothing more need be done to increase the pace, the priority and the drive behind the way things have been going, then he will have to do far more than he is now doing to convince the country that he is a model of poise and not a model of complacency.

Mr. Eisenhower has said that our scientists were aware that the Soviets would launch their earth-satellite ahead of us but that, despite the anticipated psychological boon to Moscow, it was decided that it was better not to give our own project any higher priority.

Many now doubt that this was a sound decision and if it wasn't a sound decision, shouldn't we speed our time-table?

Mr. Eisenhower has said that he approved all the money for Vanguard (the American Sputnik) which the scientists asked and "I don't know what we could have done more."

But Dr. Clifford C. Furnas, who was Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Development when these decisions were made, says that the reasons the President can say that he approved all the funds asked is that his pleas for more funds were not allowed by Secretary Wilson to get to the President.

Mr. Eisenhower says there have been no "unnecessary delays," but Trevor Gardner says that when he was Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Research and Development there were many delays caused by red tape, inter-service rivalry and the failure to make funds on hand available to Vanguard.

Military Threat

Mr. Eisenhower has minimized the military significance of the great scientific feat of launching the heavy Sputnik on its forcast orbit, but there are knowledgeable authorities who hold that the military implications are considerable and foreboding.

I am not assuming to judge out of hand these conflicting views. But a very serious conflict exists and if I judge the temper of opinion correctly, the public is rapidly and vigorously choosing up sides — mostly against the President, not on his side.

My judgement is that unless the White House intervenes quickly, candidly and conclusively and thereby takes a strong public lead, the initiative will pass from President Eisenhower's hands.

This will be harmful for the country and harmful for the President. The immediate effect will be a morass of public controversy and partisan maneuver.

On this issue at this time there is no substitute for decisive presidential leadership.

Reader Protests Some Reporting, Editorials

To the Editor:

The writer would like to comment on recent coverages, both in reporting and in editorial form, which raise skepticism and place Machiavelian thinking in the coverages. I specifically refer to Judge Weiss, Golden, the Democratic affair at Twin Coaches, and "right to work" coverages.

After many years of hostility, you hit a new low in the labor reporting by making Golden into a Goldman. You profess to know the ills and needs of the trade unions, but don't know that "Clinton Goldman" is actually "Clinton S. Golden", former vice president and assistant to Philip Murray and the United Steelworkers of America. He is not, nor has he ever been a legal advisor or general counsel as you claim.

We suggest a course in labor history before donning the long pants of journalism. Or is it too much of Weiss on your brain or anti-semite feeling?

Your recent ravings against trade unions, Judge Weiss, Democratic Party, are really showing your journalistic bias; yes your tainted slip is showing.

I don't think a man in Monessen should take the abuse that Judge Weiss is taking from you. It has its air of libel.

Even if the charges you make against Judge Weiss were true, you can't cancel his social, labor, civic and humanitarian record. He has contributed. Have You?

We in labor don't think you are fairly presenting the true intent of the so-called "right to work" laws. You use reactionaries like Lausche and Knowland to support your scabby support of union-busting. Why not quote Secretary of Labor Mitchell and many other responsible leaders in business, politics, education and church who speak against laws that would outlaw union security. I guess you don't want to "Look Who's Good For All the People."

It may be your long standing hate of a minority group that has transformed Golden to a Goldman. Maybe you have seen too much of Judge Weiss lately. Possibly you just can't accept trade unions and its place in our Democracy. Maybe your morals and ethics are just slipping into your pocketbook.

Your "Look Who's Good For All the People", and "A Basic Right Is Being Trampled" editorials, are not stimulating our search in your direction. We know what is good for all the people.

Andrew Guydon
207 Schoon. Ave.

(Editor's Note — We regret the error about Mr. Golden and hereby apologize. The reporter who covered the meeting says the information, including spelling of the name, was supplied by a member of the Democratic committee in charge.

(As to the editorial on Judge Weiss, it was based on well known facts with respect to his service in various public positions. Calling the editor biased and anti-Semitic doesn't change the facts about Judge Weiss.)

Letters to the editor on subjects of general interest are always welcome. They should be brief and must be signed by the writer and carry his address. In circumstances where personalities might confuse the issue, the signature may be withheld from publication. But unsigned letters are ignored.

Notes and Comment—

A Personal Size-up Of the Vice President

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

Since Vice President Richard M. Nixon remains very much in the front rank of presidential possibilities, one naturally looks and listens with more than common interest while in his presence.

Earlier this week I reported in some detail the substance of a very interesting background session between Mr. Nixon and about 100 editorial writers at Oklahoma City last Saturday evening.

But I suspect some of our readers might be interested in a little personal size-up at this stage of his career, his prospects being what they are and the state of the country being what it is.

I first saw Mr. Nixon a number of years ago when, as a senator just beginning to attract national attention, he spoke at one of Tom Malpass's annual Rotary dinners at Rehoboth Church. I reminded him of this as we met at Oklahoma City, and he was kind enough to say that he remembered the occasion. When he spoke of that "pretty little country church", I thought probably he actually had remembered.

Serious Young Man

I recall feeling at that time, when the Hiss case was still in the headlines, that here was a very serious and purposeful young man. He spoke without notes and with a fluency that is not common even to men of much more experience than Mr. Nixon then had.

Now this young man — he is still only 44 — has twice been elected vice president. He has become an international as well as a national figure. And although he is one of our most controversial political personalities, nobody denies that he has to be reckoned with, whether you happen to like him or whether you don't.

Mr. Nixon had not been with us very long last Saturday evening in Oklahoma City before I was saying to myself that he hadn't seemed to change much. If anything, he is a little leaner than I remembered him. His hair is still solid black, and the heavy beard which unfriendly cartoonists emphasize so mercilessly remains a distinguishing characteristic.

He has a way of looking directly at you when he is speaking, and his manner is friendly without being loose. He smiles, but it is not a political grin.

Mr. Nixon still impresses me as a serious and purposeful young man — even a little on the grim side maybe. I doubt if he relaxes very much. He speaks with the same intensity both of tone and of thought that I remembered from the Rehoboth dinner. And I get the idea that he believes what he is saying and believes it deeply.

The Vice President was with us four or five hours, first at a reception, then answering questions for over two hours following dinner. After that he joined some of the writers in what came close to being a bull session.

I previously reported most of the important things he said although it was one of the rules that he could not be quoted directly.

Studying for Presidency

What I am reporting now is a personal impression that Mr. Nixon is a man studying for the presidency of the United States and studying very hard indeed. He is, of course, just a heart beat from that office right now, and I am sure that is on his mind constantly. It would have to be.

It's undoubtedly true, too, that Mr. Nixon is the best prepared vice president we have ever had so far as his knowledge of current government affairs is concerned. There is no doubt that President Eisenhower is keeping Mr. Nixon fully informed about everything of consequence at home and abroad. And when the Vice President offers an opinion, as he does very readily, it's fairly certain to reflect the official view of the administration. The purposeful, serious young man, in other words, is now also a man of authority.

Do I think Mr. Nixon would make us a good President?

Well, I'm going to hedge on that one for a while. The reader may remember that before the Republican convention last year, The Independent expressed the view editorially that, although Mr. Nixon had been a very useful assistant to Mr. Eisenhower, in view of the President's depleted health, the party should nominate for vice president one of its senior, more experienced statesmen. And let Mr. Nixon grow a little more.

I think that was good judgment. But I'm bound to say that Mr. Nixon still impresses me as an extremely able man who has served well and is now serving well. He is obviously trying very hard to deserve public confidence. And if he is marked for greater things — well, I suspect we could go farther and do much worse.

Sputnik Expected to Flatten Taxpayers

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — Speculation may as well cease about where the Red Sputnik will fall, when it falls.

The Red Sputnik will fall upon and flatten the United States taxpayer's pocketbook, flatten that already-flat pocketbook even flatter.

No one in the administration is complacent about that although, from President Eisenhower down, the evidence is in that the lid of government spending is likely to be blown off again. Blown off and away with the lid surely would be any chance of tax reductions soon or, maybe, ever in the lifetimes of any but the very young.

Likewise may be blown away such progress as has been made under the Republican Eisenhower administration toward continued sequence of balanced budgets. And blown, too, will be such opportunity as may be offered to check and control inflation by the reduction of government expenditures.

Too Much Credit Given?

The foregoing seems to be about what may be expected as the political impact of Sputnik, which the Russians hoisted into the sky before the United States put its own little moon in orbit. It probably would give the Kremlin too much credit for craft and cunning to assume that the Communist high command planned it that way.

It is a fact, however, that an axiom of the Communist creed as stated by Lenin and some of his successors was that the democracies had a built-in, self-destroying weakness which was that democracies inevitably must spend themselves to death. True or not that is what the Communists believe.

President Eisenhower, in his Oct. 9 news conference, told how the scientists had come to him for $22 million, then $66 million and, finally, $110 million for the U.S. satellite project—and that he always had provided what they asked.

"There never has been one nickel asked for speeding up the program," he said firmly when pressed for the reasons why the Russians got their satellite into orbit first, and, he added:

Ike Did All He Could

"I have provided to the limit of my ability the money that they (the scientists) asked for and that is all I can do."

The scientists took the hint. The United Press reported in midweek that the President conferred with his top financial adviser after hearing scientists plead for more missile money.

There is congressional clamor for missile-satellite speed-up. The cost will be very great. It will be piled on top of the 5 billion dollars already being spent annually for military research and development.

There is evidence of political and public pressure on the administration to get into an all-out scientific achievement race with the Soviet Union, however great the cost.

Sputnik gave U.S. national defense a mighty booster shot.

Don't Miss Exciting Midget Tilts

Although it was believed the flu caused the decline in attendance at the local Midget League games this past week, we'll play it safe and remind you not to miss any of the remaining games on the "new" schedule set up by the league directors and coaches at a meeting this week . . . The new schedule was necessary due to the many postponements which had abbreviated the original schedule . . . Although the flu has affected all other public gatherings some feel the publicity was not strong enough concerning the midget tilts and hurt the attendance despite the fact that three stories per week appear here on the Midget tilts, (that's par for the course) but just to make sure this is another reminder of games to come.

The Mrs. Haas, wife of Dr. Richard L. Haas of Dayton, O., who recently entertained two former MHS athletes, Dan O'Bade and Carl Crawley, now Dayton U. students, is a sister of Mrs. Margaret Brown, Monessen school nurse . . . The seriousness of the flu situation was brought out ever so clearly the other day when Layfayette College announced that in cancelling its game with Delaware last Saturday the Maroon had made their first cancellation of a football contest in the 76 years it has fielded a team . . . That was a shame St. Vincent had to pull out of its game with Waynesburg today for that has always been a terrific rivalry and the game would have fit nicely into homecoming plans for the Yellowjackets.

Lenhart Top Panther 'Pitcher'

Despite the fact that he is constantly overlooked for the starting quarterback slot, Jim Lenhart, Charleroi's gift to the Pitt Panthers has by far the top passing record of the three top signal-callers on the squad. He has completed 11 of 18 tosses, one for a touchdown and all for a total of 80 yards with only two interceptions . . . Nothing new to report on our traveling buddy, Lou Kichinko since he wrote that he had arrived in Mexico . . . What's the matter, Lou, too many siestas or is it too much fiesta that's taking your time? . . . (Wouldn't you know it, just after we wrote this Lou walked into the office — looks fine.)

Moe Becker, the former Duquesne U. Iron Duke and a member of the last pro team in Pittsburgh, is now a high school coach in Canton, O., He will be one of the coaches on the instructional staff for Penn State's annual one-day basketball clinic Saturday, Nov. 3 . . . Much has been written about bands here lately but probably the fact that the last two games haven't been played has had a lot to do with forgetting to pat the local musicians on the back for a job well done in their appearances to date . . . We previously mentioned how sharp their music was at Windber and the same was true for the Uniontown and Monongahela games . . . Snappy outfit!

First Lion Gridder in 'Hall'

When J. L. "Pete" Mauthe is formally inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame at a half-time ceremony at the Penn State-Vanderbilt game today it will mark the first time a Penn State player has been so honored . . . Three former State coaches, Dick Harlow, the late Hugo Bezdek and Bob Higgins made it several years ago but they were admitted as coaches not as players . . . Art Mayorga, who will be in one of the six rounders on the fight card at the Anton Theater Monday night is being tabbed as Youngstown's Tony Galento . . . We've seen him fight and that's a perfect description . . . Like Tony, he has a pretty good punch.

Today's Sports Parade—

Golfer Jimmy Demaret Proves Top Comedian

By OSCAR FRALEY

HONOLULU (UP) — Jimmy Demaret is a very funny man.

He proved this today over a gin rummy deck while winging into Honolulu along with Slammin' Sammy Snead and Old Fearless en route to Tokyo for the International Trophy matches.

A very funny man.

"Gin," he said, laying down his hand after picking one card.

"That reminds me of the time I was playing golf with Bob Hope," he said, although I missed the connection. "Hope got up on the first tee and asked the caddy how long the hole was. The caddy told him and Hope proceeded to slice one away off to the right.

"On the second tee, Hope again asked the caddy how long the hole was," Demaret continued as he dealt the hand. "The caddy told him and Hope proceeded to hook one far off to the left. On the next hole he again asked the caddy how long the hole was and the caddy looked at him and said: 'Mr. Hope, you don't want to know how long it is—you wants to know how wide it is.'"

Gin Again

Demaret laughed hugely, pausing only to say:

"Gin."

Dealing again, Demaret recalled how he and Snead played an exhibition tour in South America 18 years ago.

"We went to a dinner with the ambassador in Brazil and he was introduced to us as 'Mr. Herton,'" Demaret recalled as he arranged his cards. "Later, when he was formally introduced at the dinner, he was introduced as 'Mr. Ambassador.' Snead wasn't long out of the hills in those days and he leaned over and said: 'Say, man, I'm sorry I called you Horton. I didn't know your name was ambassador.'"

Everybody laughed, including Snead. Everybody but Old Fearless. Because, as he finished the story, Demaret said:

"Gin."

Looking pointedly at me, Demaret dealt again and continued:

"I can't stand people who moan and groan. I was playing golf with a fellow the other day and when he started complaining I told him: 'I know a fellow who would have given a million dollars to have just missed that putt. He's dead.'"

Again Gin

Demaret grinned and added:

"Gin."

Dealing again, golf's good humor man contemplated the trip ahead.

"We ought to come home around the world," he nodded. "That Baghdad, now. I'd like to see all those guys flying around on rugs."

Spreading out his hand, he smiled:

"Gin."

Then he told one, while arranging his cards, about the lady who asked her caddy whether she could get "home" with a three iron. The caddy, puzzled, shook his head and replied:

BARTON TO O'TOOLE — Dennis O'Toole, Monessen High right end, gathers in a pass from Quarterback Dan Barton in the second quarter of last night's game at Memorial Stadium to set up the second 'Hound touchdown, before being forced out of bounds by Fred Mazurek, Redstone Quarterback, shown closing in at the right. Monessen went on to win, 38-13.

Rattay, Bronson Lead Attack on Redstone Eleven

Starting slowly the Monessen High Greyhound grid team picked up momentum as the game progressed in a brilliant display of offensive power for a surprisingly easy 38-13 victory over Redstone here last night.

Playing before a sparse crowd of about 1700 fans (kept down by the flu and inclement weather) the two rivals battled to a scoreless first quarter before the fireworks began.

Shortly after the second period opened the locals hit paydirt when fullback Carl Rattay went over from the three and the scoring parade started with Rattay scoring a second time, halfback Ken Bronson also tallying twice, end Dennis O'Toole catching a TD pass and reserve quarterback Carl Payne sneaking for the final Monessen tally.

A Dan Barton to O'Toole pass and a penalty set up the first score.

Electrifying Run

The most electrifying run of the contest was turned in by a Redstone back, however, when fullback Ralph Grooms picked his way through the Greyhound defenders and ran 84 yards with the kickoff following the first Monessen score. Joe Karbowky had gone over for a Monessen extra point and L. DiSimone was held back by the 'Hound defenders on his try after Groom's score for a 7-6 count.

Coach Armand Niccolai's lads struck back quickly after Groom's run with Rattay returning the kickoff 25 yards, and some terrific passing by Quarterback Dan Barton in hitting Bronson and O'Toole for long gains, setting up a 15-yard end run by Bronson for a 13-6 score. The extra point kick attempt by Wendell Osborne was wide.

Rattay turned in a brilliant 32-yard dash up the middle to score just after the third period opened for a 19-6 tally and again the extra point try was foiled.

Bronson followed up Rattay's effort with a 36-yarder also up the middle and Pauline missed in a placement attempt for the extra point.

The fourth quarter was only a few minutes old when Barton found O'Toole on the end of a 15-yard toss after the teams had fumbled the ball back and forth to each other following a terrific 34-yard scramble by Karbowsky. Barton was stopped on the extra point attempt and the scoreboard read, 31-13.

Substituted Freely

Meanwhile Coach Niccoli was substituting freely, a factor that led to a second Redstone score when Lou DiSimone reeled off a 27-yarder and Bill Coleman, sub quarterback, sneaked for the point after TD.

Sub 'Hound' quarterback Payne engineered the 'Hounds to their final score as he passed to Steve Burns for one first down, ran to another, saw a penalty give the locals still another first down on the one after an 11-yard dash by Rich Bass and then sneaked over for the 37-13 count. Pauline finally was able to chalk up a Monessen extra point when he booted one squarely between the uprights for the final 38-13 mark.

First downs favored Monessen, 14-4.

Next start for the Greyhounds is at home against the rugged Johnstown Johnnies next Friday night as football once again resumes normal stature after a losing bout with the flu the past two weeks.

Dragons Win, 20-6; Cougar Contest Set For Tonight

Only sketchy details on the Donora-Har-Brack game last night, the only other contest in addition to the Monessen game involving a Big Five Conference team were available this morning.

It was learned, however, that Tom Urbanik, burly Dragon fullback, cracked through Har-Brack defenses for two touchdowns while speed-merchant Angie Daberio scored once.

Donora had a 13-0 half - time lead and then substituted freely with Har-Brack scoring on the Dragon subs. Donora then added a final tally when the regulars returned to action for a short stint.

Two other games involving Big Five teams were not played last night as both the Brownsville-Monongahela and the Charleroi-North Catholic games were postponed, Charleroi's tilt until tonight, the Brownie-Wildcat game until November 11.

Wilkinsburg Wins, Clairton Rips Ambridge, 44-19

By UNITED PRESS

Wilkinsburg romped over Mt. Lebanon 24-6 in a top WPIAL Class AA game Friday night, while the remainder of the AA contenders also recorded victories.

The first Wilkinsburg score came in the opening quarter at Mt. Lebanon Stadium when Leroy Loudermilk completed a 25-yard touchdown pass. The Mounties came back in the second period for a tally to make the half-time score, 6-6.

The Tigers then scored two touchdowns in the third quarter and one in the fourth.

In other AA games, Uniontown trounced Washington, 28-6, before 5,300 fans at Uniontown and Clairton ripped previously unbeaten but tied Ambridge 44-19, at Ambridge.

Capitalizing on Ambridge mistakes to roll up a three-touchdown lead in the first quarter, Coach Neil Brown's Bears rolled to their sixth straight victory while handing the Bridgers their worst defeat since they lost to Beaver Falls, 56-0, 'way back in 1926. The lopsided lacing also ended Ambridge's non-losing streak of 15 games.

In Class A competition, Tarentum eliminated Leechburg 13-6. Glassport, another A contender, meets Elizabeth this afternoon.

In Class B, Point Marion ousted Fairchance, 27-6.

In B games today, a contender, Montour, hosts Neville. Aspinwall will attempt to stay in the race in a game at East McKeesport and West Greene, also in contention, will host Ellsworth.

Rostraver Plays Host To Bellmar 'Neighbor'

Bellmar and Rostraver High Schools try again tonight to play their annual "back-yard" classic at the Rostraver Stadium after having the game postponed from Thursday.

Rostraver's season record shows losses to Ellsworth, West Newton and California while Bellmar has a 2-2 record with victories over Centerville and Penn Joint and losses to Perry and German Township. Rostraver had games with Glassport and North Huntingdon postponed while Bellmar cancelled a game with Elizabeth-Forward after the flu stopped the originally-carded tilt.

Regardless of season records the games between the arch-rivals usually come out with the winner copping by only a one-touchdown margin.

Manzini named the following starters: Percy Cranford and Steve Stefanik at the ends with Billy Kubin to see action; Ron Schmidt and Gary Grant at the tackles with Bill Barker also in the picture; Burgess and O'Toole at guards with Ken Waugaman also to see considerable action: Bill Mullen at center. The backfield will show Petras at quarterback, Ralph Greco and Larry Rankin at halves and Reggie Kostelac at fullback.

Coach Wade Bender of Rostraver will go with Ralph Snyder and Harry Hall at ends, Walt Karbowsky and Tom Strong at tackles, Allen Siech and Steve Matova at guards, Captain John Bankston at center. Bob Keith will quarterback the team with Gus Allen and David Burkes at halves and Clyde Kuhn at fullback.

Queen To See First Grid Tilt

NC-Terps; But Illini Game Tops

By MILTON RICHMAN

Queen Elizabeth will get a royal look at American football by witnessing the Maryland-North Carolina game today while the rest of the nation's fans probably will have their eyes peeled on the nationally-televised game between Illinois and Minnesota.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, more accustomed to watching rugby, cricket and polo will be among the spectators at College Park, Md., where North Carolina's surprising Tar Heels are seven-point favorites over once-mighty Maryland.

TV fans will have an opportunity to watch Minnesota's slick quarterbacks, Bobby Cox and Dick Larson, in operation against Illinois. The Gophers, ranked third in the nation, have registered three victories already and are 13-point favorites to rack up number four.

Although the flu has caused cancellation of numerous games throughout all sections of the country, virtually all of the so-called "big" games will go on as scheduled.

Purdue Has Flu

Michigan State, the national leader in total offense and the team ranked first by the United Press Board of Coaches, plays host to a Purdue team that has four members sidelined by the flu. Michigan State is a solid 21-point choice.

Oklahoma, which dropped to second place in the national rankings, last week, is gunning for its 44th straight victory against Kansas and the Sooners are an overwhelming 34-point choice.

At least two bowl berths could be affected in a pair of other games on tap for today.

Washington State is almost a cinch to represent the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl if it can beat Oregon in an "even money" game. Washington State hasn't visited the Rose Bowl in 26 years and this may be the best chance the Cougars will get in a long time, since only they, Oregon, Stanford and California are eligible for a bowl trip this season.

Tech Hopes To Recoup

Another "pick-'em" game which could produce a Sugar or Cotton Bowl team is the one in which unbeaten Auburn, the nation's best defensive team, meets Georgia Tech. The Engineers are hoping to bounce back from a loss at the hands of Louisiana State last week.

Iowa and Wisconsin put their undefeated records on the line against one another with the Hawkeyes a one touchdown favorite, while in two other Big Ten battles, Michigan was favored by 13 points over Northwestern, and Ohio State was picked by 28 points over Indiana.

Oregon State was an eight-point choice over UCLA in a West Coast feature, while in the big Southwest clash, Texas A&M was quoted a 10-point favorite over Texas Christian.

Army By One

Notre Dame has an off-day today but the team it beat last week, Army, is rated a one-point favorite over Pittsburgh.

Penn State was the choice over Vanderbilt and Syracuse the pick over Nebraska in the two major intersectional games.

Other Choices

EAST—Yale over Cornell, Pennsylvania over Brown, Harvard over Columbia, Rutgers over Lehigh, Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Boston College over Villanova.

MIDWEST—Missouri over Iowa State, Colorado over Kansas State, Cincinnati over Marquette, Houston over Oklahoma State, Tulsa over North Texas State, Detroit over Xavier (Ohio).

SOUTH — Louisiana State over Kentucky, Navy over Georgia, Tennessee over Alabama, Florida over Mississippi State, Duke over Wake Forest, William and Mary over Virginia Military.

SOUTHWEST — Arkansas over Texas, Baylor over Texas Tech, Rice over Southern Methodist.

FAR WEST — Stanford over Washington, Idaho over College of Pacific, New Mexico over Arizona, Utah over Denver, Utah State over Montana, Wyoming over Brigham Young, California-Southern California, "even money."

Giants Favored By Seven Over Steeler Eleven

By UNITED PRESS

The Baltimore Colts take the National Football League's hottest offense and ground defense to Detroit Sunday to put their Western Division lead on the line against the Lions in the day's top professional game.

Baltimore has swept its first three starts but Detroit (2-1) is only a game behind and can tie the Colts for first place by winning. The Colts, winners of only five of 31 road games in the NFL, are favored by just one point although they opened the campaign with a 34-14 victory over the Lions at Baltimore.

The San Francisco Forty-Niners, tied with Detroit for second in the Western race, are favored by a half-point against the Green Bay Packers (1-2) at Milwaukee.

The key games in the Eastern Division will be played at Philadelphia and New York. The Cleveland Browns are seven-point choices to boost their perfect record to a 4-0 by defeating the Eagles (0-3) at Philadelphia. The Giants and Pittsburgh Steelers (both 2-1) meet at Yankee Stadium with New York favored by seven points.

In Sunday's other games, the Chicago Bears (0-3) are four-point favorites to beat the Los Angeles Rams (1-2) at Wrigley Field, and the Redskins (1-2) are six-point choices against the Chicago Cardinals (1-2) at Washington.

Flu-Crippled Lions Battle Vanderbilt

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP)—A flu-crippled Penn State team, favored by most oddsmakers, meets a speedy Vanderbilt team today before an expected near-capacity crowd of 28,000 at Beaver Field.

The flu epidemic at Penn State hit seven players during the week, and it was doubtful any of the seven would see extended action against the Commodores. Those stricken included the team's first two fullbacks, Maurice Schleicher and Emil Caprara, halfbacks Andy Moconyi, Pat Batula and Francis Paolone and tackles Andy Stynchula and Tom Mulraney. All were bedded down Friday.

Some oddsmakers picked Vanderbilt to beat the Lions, perhaps because of the squad's weakened condition.

Vanderbilt, with a 1-1-2 record this season, boasted several speedy backs. Fullback Jim Butler has run the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds, but the team's best break-away runner has been Phil King, a big Cherokee Indian called "The Chief" by his teammates.

The Lions were shooting for their third victory. They beat Penn and William & Mary, and lost to Army.

Mountaineers Win 23rd SC Game in Row

WASHINGTON (UP)—West Virginia, piling up more than 400 yards rushing and passing, scored its 23rd consecutive Southern Conference victory Friday night by defeating George Washington 34-14.

The Mounties piled up two touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second and two in the final period. George Washington's speedy Mike Sommer provided West Virginia with some anxious moments in the first quarter when he raced 71 yards for a touchdown. Dick Claypoole's conversion gave the Capital city team a 7-6 lead.

But it didn't last long. The Mountaineers drove 76 yards on the next kickoff to go ahead 12-7. After that, it seemed easy for the West Virginians, as they won their third victory of the season.

Calhoun Easily Tops Castellani

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweight contender Rory Calhoun, who won a lopsided decision over Rocky Castellani Friday night, looked to France today for an opponent because no American contender will fight him.

"I've had to cable Charley Humez of France to see if he'll fight you," matchmaker Billy Brown told the White Plains (N.Y.) slugger who had chased veteran Castellani about Madison Square Garden's ring for 10 rounds and hit him whenever he could.

It was the first fight at the Garden in nearly six months and it was a very dull one for the 3,000 fans and the TV spectators because of Rocky's running and grabbing tactics.

It was such an uneven pursuit race that none of the three ring officials gave Atlantic City Rocky more than one round. Judge Tony Castellano did call it eight for Calhoun, one for Rocky and one even. But both referee Harry Kessler and judge Harold Barnes scored it 9-1, as did the United Press.

Packers Sign Purnell

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP) — Frank Purnell, 6-2, 230-pound fullback who played college ball at Alcorn A&M, Miss., was picked up on waivers by the Green Bay Packers today. Purnell fills the roster vacancy created by the loss of injured end Gray Knafelc.

Haney Expected To Sign Today For Big Raise

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Manager Fred Haney was expected to sign his 1958 contract today at a substantial increase for guiding the injury-riddled Milwaukee Braves to the 1957 National League pennant and world championship.

Haney, 58, was to meet with General Manager John Quinn this afternoon to iron out details of the contract. The wiry little skipper reportedly got $35,000 last season.

In line with club policy set by President Joseph Cairnes, Haney's next contract was expected to run for one year.

His accomplishments since he took over the Braves in mid-1956 not only earned Haney a pay raise but made him a likely candidate for manager-of-the-year.

The club was beset through the past season with injuries to such key players as Billy Bruton, Joe Adcock and even top slugger Hank Aaron. At one time Haney had to use catcher Del Crandall in right field.

Pitt Meets Army Today in Game Which May Decide Top East Team

By UNITED PRESS

Pitt and Army meet at West Point today in a game which will mean much in deciding the top college football team in the East.

Army Coach Earl Blaik, fearful the Cadets may be in for "a bad licking" because of their mental attitude during practice this week following last Saturday's loss to Notre Dame, said Pitt appeared better in the backfield and bigger in the line than the Irish.

The Cadets were up to par physically, as were the Panthers. Pitt fullback Fred Riddle, the team's leading ground gainer, missed some practice this week because of a cold but was expected to start against the Cadets.

Joe Scisly will be at right half for the Panthers, Bill Kalsden, who missed the Nebraska game last Saturday, will start at quarterback and Dick Haley at left half.

In other Western Pennsylvania college games, Waynesburg hosts Edinboro, Westminster plays Geneva at Beaver Falls, Grove City goes against Allegheny at Meadville, Clarion visits Cheyney, and Kutztown plays at Juniata.

Waynesburg and Edinboro got together after the flu epidemic forced St. Vincent to call off its game with Waynesburg and California to cancel its scheduled meeting with Edinboro.

Juniata's scheduled opponent was Lycoming, and when the flu forced Lycoming to bow out Kutztown, which had an open date, agreed to fill in.

The Western Reserve at Slippery Rock and Thiel at Washington & Jefferson games also were cancelled due to the flu outbreak.

Long Putt Wins

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (UP)—Doug Ford, 1957 Masters golf champion, sank a 30-foot putt on the 18th hole Saturday to win the Metropolitan PGA title by one stroke over Bill Collins and Al Feminelli. Ford shot three 70s in the 54-hole tournament on the Concord International Club course.

Rochester Icers Meet Hershey in AHL Go Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

The Rochester Americans will attempt to climb a step higher in the American Hockey League standings when they tangle with the Hershey Bears in tonight's featured game.

The Americans defeated Buffalo, 6-4, in Friday night's only action to move into a third-place tie with the Bisons, only two points behind Hershey. In other games tonight, Buffalo will be at Cleveland and winless Springfield will entertain the league-leading Providence Reds.

A full schedule is also on tap for Sunday, with Springfield at Buffalo, Hershey at Providence and Cleveland at Rochester.

Ab McDonald scored twice for the Americans on Friday, including the goal that put Rochester ahead for good. Gary Collins, Ken Girard, Mike Nykoluk and Eddie Mazur were the other American goal-getters. Dick Gamble paced Buffalo with two goals with Larry Wilson and Ken Wharram receiving credit for the others.

Cage Season to Open on Gardens Court Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — The New York Knickerbockers will have three stars sidelined and two others opposing them tonight when they make their local debut against the College All-Stars at Madison Square Garden.

The game, following one between the world-famous Harlem Globe-Trotters and the Washington Generals, will benefit the free milk fund for babies.

The Knicks will be without the services of Richie Guerin, who has a broken thumb, Willie Gardner, who is under observation for a heart condition and probably Ken Sears, who has an injured back.

The college team is comprised of Charley Tyra, of Louisville, Brendan McCann of St. Bonaventure, Len Rosenbluth of North Carolina, Rod Hundley of West Virginia, Dick Duckett of St. John's, Gerry Paulson of Manhattan, Chet Forte of Columbia, Win Wilfong of Memphis State, Jim Krebs of Southern Methodist and Bob McCoy of Grambling.

The polka dot, earliest design known to have been used on neckwear, is supposed to have been a tribute to the sun god.

Burger's Philco Super Marketer Prevents Costly Spoilage of Meat

Housewives who are budget-minded will get a thrill out of the newest Philco Super Marketer, sold along with other Philco appliances at Burger's, 409 Schoonmaker avenue in Monessen.

It offers the greatest guard against meat spoilage since the refrigerator was invented, it is claimed, and with plenty of reasons to back that claim up.

Exclusive "Cold Flow" Meat Locker in the 1957 Philco Super Marketer keeps meat fresh days longer without freezer. Even the most perishable meats stay juicy, tender and delicious longer than ever before.

Meat accounts for 25 per cent of your food dollar. . . and is the most perishable food you buy. Yet, believe it or not fresh meat is seldom kept under ideal conditions in today's homes. This is because most refrigerators cannot provide the closely controlled temperature and humidity that fresh meat requires.

Meat experts say meat keeps best at the exact temperature of 33 degrees—one degree above freezing. However, the temperature in the refrigerator section of the average twin-system model is about 40 degrees. This is fine for most fresh foods. . .but seven degrees too warm for the safe keeping of meat.

The "Cold Flow" Meat Locker, found only in the 1957 Philco Super Marketer, is an altogether new idea in the refrigeration of meat in the home. It's a separate compartment within the refrigerator that operates on a cooling system entirely its own. A special duct temperature of 33 degrees, and (2) carefully balanced humidity to prevent drying out, shrinkage and loss of flavor.

The Super Marketer saves you shopping and cooking time. No longer do you have to cook chopped meat or chops—or eat cold cuts—within a day or two of purchase. You can now buy these highly perishable meats on a weekend, store them in the Philco Meat Locker drawer, for eating in the middle of the following week. And you'll never have to wait hours for meat to thaw because it will never freeze in the Meat Locker.

Philco began work on a separate zone for meat back in 1954, following a recommendation by the National Livestock and Meat Board. Today after three years of research and testing, the "cold Flow" Meat Locker emerges from the Philco laboratory as one of the outstanding advances in modern refrigeration.

Don't miss these other exciting PHILCO features . . . Full family size freezer—not just a tiny compartment, new cheese keeper— keeps cheese mold-free, ready to eat, waist-high crisper—keeps fruit, vegetables garden-fresh, dairy door bar—has room for 2-quart milk containers, choice of colors—Suntone, Startone or gleaming white. Smart white, smart custom styling—provides the modern "built-in" look.

2 Card of Thanks

SIMON — We wish to thank our many thoughtful friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and passing of our beloved mother, Mrs. Jane Simon. To the priests of the St. Sebastian Church especially Father Fisher, also Mr. Toner and his staff, for the mass cards, floral tributes, cars and to all who helped to lighten our burden in any way, we are so very very grateful.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Julia Rohar, who died six years ago today, October 19, 1951.

We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleeps forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.

Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Michael Zoretich, who died nine years ago tomorrow, October 20, 1948.

We do not forget him
We love him too dearly
For his memory to fade
From our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak when
Our hearts mourn sincerely.
For grief often dwells
Where it seldom is seen.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Children

In loving memory of our dear mother, mother-in-law, and grandmother, Mrs. Irene Walters, who died 14 years ago tomorrow, October 20, 1943.

The rolling stream of life rolls on
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice the smile,
Of the one who once sat there.
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us
Since you were called away.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Randall Lee and Children

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Irene Walters, who died 14 years ago tomorrow, October 20, 1943.

Gone, dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by husband, Ted Walters and Family

In loving memory of my sister Mrs Eva Rotolo who died five years ago tomorrow October 20, 1952.

They say time heals all sorrows, and helps us to forget
But time so far has only proved how much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it and courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you, no one will ever know.

Sadly missed by brother George Panica and Family.

Diptheria Hits Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Health officials Friday launched an "emergency" drive to immunize 230,000 public and parochial school pupils against diphtheria which has claimed two lives.

Dr. Norman R. Ingraham, deputy health commissioner urged all parents to have their children inoculated if they have not done so yet. Children who have received injections will get booster shots, with the permission of their parents.

Health officials called for the action following the discovery of another case of the disease, bringing the total to 16 so far this year. For the same period of last year four cases, none fatal, were reported.

Flu Death Toll in State Climbs to 21

By UNITED PRESS

The Pennsylvania death toll in the flu epidemic climbed to 21 Friday when three more persons died.

The victims were a 41-year-old woman at the Pennhurst State School for the Mentally Retarded in Chester County, a 15-year-old girl and a 23-year-old Bradford County farmer who died in Endicott, N. Y.

Schools throughout the state continued to close Friday and several football games and social events were cancelled in an effort to halt the spread of the epidemic. Eighteen public and parochial schools in Schuylkill County were closed and all football games for this weekend were postponed or cancelled. Pottsville reported 1,100 absent Friday, one third of the public school enrollment.

Almost 25,000 were absent from public and parochial schools in Pittsburgh. In Philadelphia, school absenteeism remained at about 70,000. The Philadelphia Health Department said, however, that the total number of flu cases rose to 118,000.

Temple University postponed a student dance scheduled Friday night in connection with the Alumni Homecoming Week End. Temple's infirmary is filled with flu patients.

Penn State also was hard hit with one quarter of the 12,000 students ill. Only those with temperatures of 104 degrees were admitted to the overcrowded infirmary.

All public and parochial schools in Scranton are scheduled to close next week. Also closing are the Maryland Seminary, Scranton Preparatory School and St. Stanislaus Polish National School.

Dr. Robert A. Matthews, State Commissioner of Mental Health, said Friday that Asian flu vaccine was being sent to state institutions for inoculating inmates. He said those at Pennhurst, however, would not be inoculated. He explained that consultants believe children exposed to flu but not infected may react unfavorable to the vaccine.

Friday's death at the school was its seventh due to flu-like illness. The victim was the first adult to die of the illness at the school.

Fight TB By Annual Check-ups

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Glance into the mirror for a moment. Then ask yourself this question: Does that handsome person standing before me have tuberculosis?

Then try to answer. Look at the reflection of your face, look at your eyes, your lips. If you are honest with yourself, you will answer: "I don't know; how can I tell?"

This is exactly the point I'm trying to make — you can't tell from a person's looks whether he has tuberculosis. Oh, there are signs and symptoms, of course.

First of these to appear usually are a cough that you just can't get rid of, a slight fever, loss of weight or a feeling that you are tired all the time.

But these symptoms may not appear until months after the tuberculosis germs first infect your body.

In the beginning, when tuberculosis is most easily cured, there may be no outward sign of infection at all.

Let's get one more thing straight before we go any further.

We've got tuberculosis on the run, but it's not licked yet. Unless everyone protects himself, and his family, tuberculosis will always present a danger to all of mankind.

Right now about 500,000 persons have the disease. And many of them don't know it! It is these persons who face the most danger.

Don't take any chances. Make sure everyone in your family gets an annual chest X-ray. In addition, your doctor may recommend a skin patch test which will disclose whether you have a tuberculosis condition.

If tuberculosis is indicated, your doctor can obtain proof by making certain laboratory tests. Only if he gives you a clean bill of health can you be positive that you do not have tuberculosis.

Even if you have tuberculosis, it doesn't necessarily mean that you will have to spend long months in a sanitarium. Some infections are discovered so early that no hospital care is needed.

Careful and wholesome living habits along with periodic medical check-ups may be all that is needed.

In Hollywood—

Glamour Girl of 20's Bares 'Youth Secret'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Peggy Hamilton, a Hollywood glamour girl of the '20s, revealed today what she said was the "youth secret" of some of the mature movie Queens of the 50s.

She threw a "coming out" party at the Sunset Strip's Garden of Allah, offering herself as a living example of her claim that some of the big names in Hollywood are getting non - surgical face-lifts.

Photographers who took the "before" pictures prior to her entering a Dallas, Tex., clinic for a 30-day treatment snapped "after" photographs of the results. She said the clinic (Graham Geriatric Clinic) did the trick with a painless kind of "mud-pack" solution. "It was nerve-wracking because you had to sit still for so long," she said.

But she averred it was worth it.

"It is said that 60 per cent of the women over 40 who visit doctors' offices have nothing organically wrong with them but are merely psychosomatic cases," she said.

Secret of Youth

"Some of the most prominent names in the entertainment world have this new secret of youth and zest.

"A couple of decades ago there was a definite dividing point between youth and middle-age. After forty, women started wearing all - black dresses with longer hemlines. They started de - accentuating their makeup and hairdos. This made women old before their time.

"This has been changed somewhat, but women still face middle age with the improper attitude. They feel that they should start acting more subdued and less youthful. Their inner reluctance to do this creates a fear complex and too often a depressive personality."

Survived Three Mishaps

Miss Hamilton survived incredible misfortune during a career as a newspaper fashion editor (Los Angeles Times) and radio star. Newspaper clippings list a train wreck as the first in a string of serious mishaps. When she was the first official hostess in Los Angeles, an airliner plowed into a group of guests at an airport function and she suffered a spinal injury. An auto wreck in 1951 nearly wrote "finis" — she spent two years in traction with a broken neck.

"But I'm back with all my spirits," she said, holding her new face up for the cameramen.

All sea water contains gold. This amounts to about five cents worth to every ton.

Actors Held On Dope Charges

HOLLYWOOD (UP)— Actors Scott Brady and Desmond Slattery today were free on $2,500 bail each after their arrest on narcotics charges in a police raid on their Hollywood Hills home.

Brady, 33, and Slattery, 43, who also doubles as a publicist, were booked in jail Friday on suspicion of violating state narcotics laws. Brady declared the charge was a "frame-up" by police. The two were ordered to appear Monday for arraignment in Municipal Court.

The actors were picked up several hours after a complaint was issued by Dep. Dist. Atty. Robert Lord. Investigators said they had received tips that narcotics parties were being held at the home shared by the actors.

Brady, who was booked under his legal name of Gerald Tierney, is the brother of actor Lawrence Tierney, noted for his portrayal of gunman John Dillinger in a motion picture. Lawrence later became well known to police for his numerous run-ins with authorities on drinking charges.

Narcotics officers said two women were in the home with the actors at the time of the raid. But the women were released after questioning.

Party Guests Hold Breath As Straps Pop

WASHINGTON (UP) — The guests at a formal dinner for Queen Elizabeth II held their breath Friday night when the shoulder straps popped on a dancer's gown.

First one snapped on the white-sequined gown of performer Marge Champion—trailing gracefully behind her as she and her husband, Gower, swept around the floor. They were performing for the Queen at the glittering state dinner given by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the Pan American Union.

A moment later the second strap went the way of the first . . . and the eyes of the 104 richly-dressed and bejeweled diners became transfixed on the dress as the couple danced on to "county fair."

"I hope it stays up," one lady guest whispered in horrified fascination.

It did, barely.

Liquor Employes Get Pay Boosts

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Liquor Control Board has granted meritorious pay increases of 5 per cent to 1,376 employes.

The increases, made on evaluation of efficiency, go to 291 administrative employes, 370 state store managers and co-managers and 715 store clerks.

Total cost of the increases was set at $10,524 bi-weekly.

SHOW CANCELLED

The horse show scheduled for Sunday at King's speedway, Youngwood, has been cancelled because of the current flu-epidemic, it was announced today.

Man's Workshop Is Being Invaded by Women 'Machinists'

One of man's last retreats in the home — his workshop — is being invaded by the ladies The reason: Some of today's portable electric tools are so lightweight and easy to operate that it's fun for the gals to use them.

In fact, home tool specialists of Thor Power Tool Company, Chicago, report that women shopping for tools as gifts for their husbands often make their selection with the idea of picking a tool they can use themselves

So with the woman as well as the man of the house in mind, Thor has developed an unusual new speed drill that weighs only 4 pounds, is less than 9 inches long overall, and can be used not only as a drill but as a jigsaw, sander, and polisher!

Refinishing old furniture or smoothing and completing unfinished furniture long have appealed to many women Now they're easily done, with no muscle-work, with an electric tool. Even do-it-yourself projects, such as making decorative wooden animals for display in the yard, present no problem to the gals — although they usually want some of hubby's advice before starting the job to be sure they use the electric jigsaw attachment to the utmost advantage.

A versatile tool such as the four-in-one speed drill can be used for sanding down rough spots in wall refinishing, too, or for polishing the family automobile if desired. The sander and lambswool bonnet polisher are easily attached to the drill for such tasks.

Whatever the job, there's no doubt that the home workshop is "no-woman's-land" But far from being angry about it, most men are happy to have another interest to share with their wives.

HANDY FOR THE GALS, TOO — Lightweight, easy-to-use portable electric tools are taking the muscle-work out of do-it-yourself projects and removing the home workshop from the "no-woman's-land" category. Using the jigsaw attachment of a Thor speed drill, this young housewife is cutting out a bunny for her yard Then she'll sand the bunny and, after painting polish it with the drill's other handy attachments. It's easy — with an electric tool that weighs only four pounds

Use Wardrobe Cartons When You Are Moving

Undoubtedly every American husband has heard that old familiar lament, "I don't have a thing to wear."

But when it comes time to move into a new home and friend husband starts emptying the closet he is amazed to learn how much clothing the little woman really has Any husband who has undertaken to move it all by himself will attest to the fact that it's no easy job

Best solution to that particular moving problem is to let the mover transfer all the garments into wardrobe cartons especially designed for that purpose, and carry them off to your new quarters

The uniquely designed wardrobe carton used by Mayflower movers, for example holds up to 125 pounds of clothing It is so designed that suits, dresses, coats and other wearing apparel can be transferred right from the closet, hanger and all, to a hanger bar that fits inside the wardrobe carton

After the carton has been filled, the top slides down in place and the carton is ready for shipment The clothing hangs free from dust and dirt throughout its period of confinement, and arrives at its destination just as clean and wrinkle-free as when it was placed in the carton

Record Steel To Be Used in Future Building

Heavy construction is likely to utilize record amounts of steel this year as the builders remake the face of the United States, said American Iron and Steel Institute today

According to one estimate, shipments of heavy structural shapes this year will approximate 6,700,000 net tons, a 25 per cent gain over the total of 5 349,000 tons last year, while shipments of plates will be 9 600 000 tons, or 25 per cent higher than the 7,715 000 tons shipped last year Still further increases are expected in 1958

Each month this year, well over 500,000 tons of structural shapes has been shipped from steel mills an increase of more than 20 per cent as compared to a year ago Each month, an average of more than 800,000 tons of steel plates has been shipped, also an increase of over 20 per cent as compared to a year ago

These gains reflect the expansion of steel mill capacities Steel companies have been spending huge sums of money to increase their out put of steel for construction purposes Some of the new capacity is already in operation and some of it will be available later In September one company announced a plan to double its capacity for the production of wide flange beams

Hardwood Floors Standard Equipment

Along with modern kitchens more living space and multiple baths most National Home Week houses this year boast an abundance of top quality construction features which spell value in capital letters

Genuine hardwood floors for instance, are virtually standard equipment This reflects a continuation of a trend evidenced last year in a U S government agency survey The study disclosed that hardwood floors were included in 85 per cent of the new houses erected in the first quarter of 1956

In one section of the country the Northeast the popularity of hardwood floors was even more pronounced They were found in 90 per cent of dining rooms 93 per cent of living rooms and 94 per cent of bedrooms

Demand for fine floors of attractive hardwoods, according to interior designers is associated closely with a trend toward exposed floors in decorative planning

Oak Well Adapted

Oak the most extensively used flooring hardwood is especially well adapted to the new fashion since it is famed for striking natural beauty, its note of warmth and friendliness its resistance to wear and its easy upkeep

The decorative appeal of hand some hardwood floors was pointed up recently in 'Living for Young Homemakers, a leading magazine in the home field

The publication advised young householders to consider the opportunity that exists "to create a magnificent expanse of beautiful mellow wood underfoot"

Referring to the splendid 200-year-old parquetry in Thomas Jefferson's Monticello, the magazine declared

"Surpassing even such evidence of durability is the exciting variety available in flooring today Techniques of mass production have brought a wealth of pattern color and style within the reach of the homemaker of average means which even a few years ago would have been considered extravagant

Building People Say Home Designing in Wood Very Popular

There's no question but that more and more people are covetous of wood in home design Many see and admire it in their friends' homes, and then ask for it in their own homes, a prominent Oregon architect reports

Warren Weber, member of the American Institute of Architects, went on to elaborate 'The homeowners like it especially because its subtle tracing of pattern in the grain and its texture furnish a decorative motif which is lovely in itself and wood's coloring, rich but neutral, makes it the ideal backdrop for an unrelated scheme of bright or subdued shades, blending or contrasting hues

"In addition to these, the architect of course, sees some of wood's more practical qualities One of the best things about a piece of wood like west coast hemlock or western red cedar is that both sides of the board have equal decorative potentialities so both sides can be exposed"

This comes in especially handy when working with dividers Weber pointed out There are many cases in which a room divider of some sort is needed but where there is not enough floor space to warrant the use of a storage device or furniture arrangement to separate use areas. And this is where the screen wall, only as thick as the board used, makes its appearance

"These can be done in various designs, but one of my favorites is to use western red cedar or west coast hemlock boards, cut with an exaggerated tongue and groove for dramatic effect, which are fitted vertically into a top and bottom rail The purpose is accomplished, only an inch or so of floor space has been used, and an interesting bit of finish work, lovely to view from any angle, has been added to the home"

Weber recommended clear finishes for such woods as hemlock and cedar so that all the decorative effect of the wood's coloring texture, and grain remains visible.
